Regulatory Update

Expansion of SAR requirements in South Korea

Beginning January 1, 2013, Korea's Korea Communications Commission (KCC) will expand its existing SAR requirements (which currently applies to mobile phones only) to include all radio equipment that is used within 20 cm of the human body.

This move harmonizes the Korean SAR requirements with FCC and other international standard requirements. Low powered radio devices (operating with an output power below 20mW EIRP) are exempt from this new requirement.
